eBooks and Audiobooks

eBooks and Audiobooks

The “eBooks” tab on our web page provides access to our eBooks and audiobooks.

(Using OneSearch works, but not as well)

We provide eBooks:

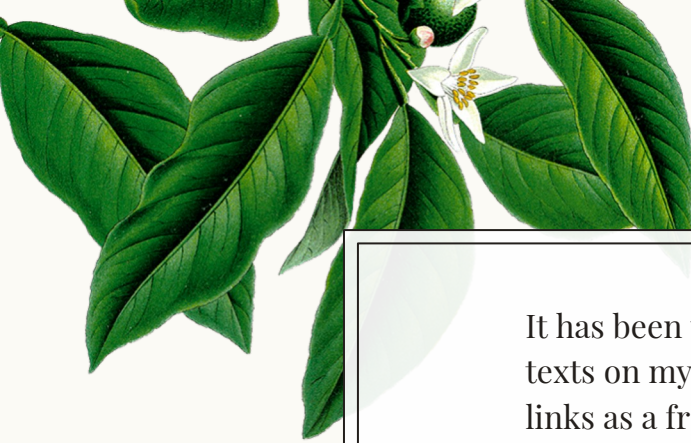

- EBSCO (which has the broadest range)
- Gale (which focuses on reference material)
- O’Reilly (which contains textbooks and focuses on business and tech)

Audiobooks:

- Axis 360 (new service, stay tuned!)

We can also help students access eBooks and audiobooks materials through Libby, but it’s part of the Peninsula Library System and they would need a public library card.

It has been tremendously helpful to have the links to these texts on my course Canvas page! I can direct students to these links as a free and accessible option to obtaining the book. Having these links available also comes in handy when students forget their books and when I want to project the text for the class to read analyze on the board together. I also tell the students that with these accessible links, they can read the texts anywhere, anytime!

Streaming Videos

“I use Films on Demand and Kanopy with my Intermediate Spanish students, as they have to watch a movie and write about it for their final composition. I give them a list, and they choose one to watch.”

– Sarah Harmon, Spanish faculty

I thoroughly depend on Kanopy and Films on Demand for my curriculum!

Streaming Videos

The “videos” tab on our webpage provides access to our streaming services

- Films on Demand
 - Great for television documentaries (HBO, PBS, Discovery+, etc.)
- Kanopy
 - Great for independant and international films and film/television documentaries
 - Includes the Criterion Collection and Great Courses series
- Swank
 - This is great for Hollywood movies we can’t otherwise access
 - We can license 25 titles per fiscal year – just ask!

Streaming Videos: Ted Talks

Prof Taveau (ESL and ENGL) uses Ted Talks, which can be great for students and classes.

Ted Talks are easy to find on YouTube of course. The main TED YouTube channel currently has more than 4,000 videos.

But the library offers Ted Talks through Films on Demand! Like on YouTube, it provides subtitles, transcripts, a search feature, and the ability to make and share clips. But Films on Demand also

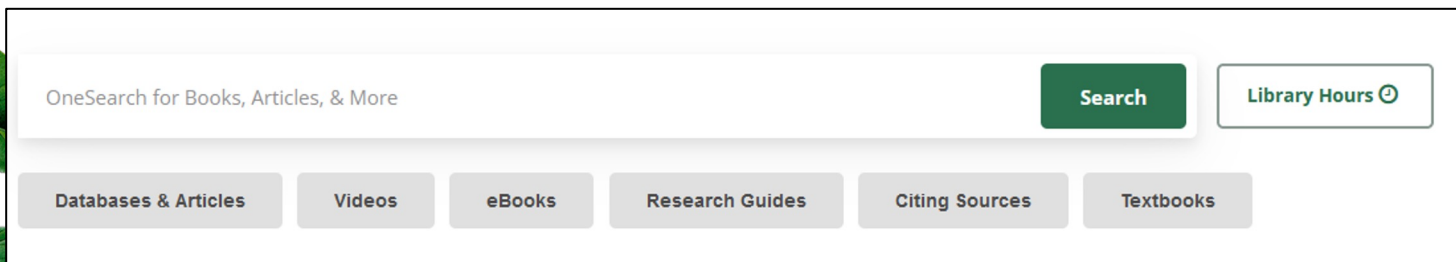

- Provides an easy, pre-set list of clips
 - Ensures that students have the correct video
 - Gives data a student will need for a Work Cited or Reference page
 - And doesn't require a Google account or get into Google's algorithms and rabbit holes

The library staff, especially Chris Burns, were an essential resource when it came to my honors research project. They went above and beyond in helping me find sources from all over as well as helping to provide highly educated people to bounce ideas off of.
