Did you know?

If you want to cite a sources that is quoted in another source (only do this if absolutely necessary), you would use what's called an indirect quote. In MLA it would look like this:
Carpenter believes, "Horror's always been the same. It's flexible. It changes with societal changes" (qtd. in Bakare).

Kanopy Recommendations from Library Staff

Anita, Speaking Truth to Power

A really inspiring documentary about Professor Anita Hill's 1991 Senate Hearing testimony about alleged sexual harassment she received from soon-to-be Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas.

Hill radiates dignity in the face of adversity. This film is nothing if not timely!

-Jessica Silver-Sharp (Librarian)

Kedi: Cats of an Ancient City

Kedi is about the kitties that run free through the photogenic streets of Istanbul. Their story is tightly intertwined with the history of the city, and instead of being seen as a nuisance, their presence is accepted and even embraced by most of its citizens. And while cats are definitely the main characters, there are a couple cool humans too. If you're feline like a good documentary, check it out meow! -Paul Gaskins (Library Support Specialist)
